The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva, Switzerland

invites applications for a full-time position at the rank of ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF INTERNATIONAL ECONOMICS with a focus on International Trade starting on 1 September 2016 or a mutually agreed-upon date.

Candidates – men or women – must hold a PhD in economics prior to the start of their contract. The successful candidate will teach postgraduate courses in the department of International Economics and provide courses for the interdisciplinary programmes of the Institute. She or he will supervise Master’s and PhD theses.

The capacity to work with colleagues from other disciplines is an asset.

The teaching language is either English or French. Prior knowledge of French is not required, but the successful candidate is expected to acquire at least a passive knowledge of it within two years of being hired.

The Institute reserves the right to fill this position by invitation at any time.
