JOB NOTICE

The Regional Affairs Department at the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City is recruiting for the position of Economist in its Omaha Branch office.

The position’s primary responsibilities are to produce scholarly research on topics of relevance to the economy of the Tenth Federal Reserve District, with a focus on agricultural and rural issues including regional economic analysis; communicate research findings in leading professional journals, Bank publications, and public presentations and speeches; and advise the Bank’s senior management on regional economic developments.

A Ph.D. in economics or agricultural economics is required. A foundation in agricultural markets, applied econometrics, or regional modeling is preferred. Candidates should have an exceptional academic record, a strong analytical foundation, excellent written and oral communication skills, and the ability to manage several projects at one time.

If interested in the position, follow the application instructions below to create a profile and submit your CV for consideration. Furthermore, please send three letters of reference, and copies of recent papers to researchrecruiting@kc.frb.org. We must receive all materials by December 1, 2013.
