The International Development Program of the Graduate School of International Relations invites applications for a full-time position at the assistant professor level. Our priority is in the following fields: financial economics and public economics. However, candidates with applied econometrics skills (either time-series or cross-sectional/panel) in any field will be considered.

In addition, candidates should also be able to teach at least one course of the followings: public economics, corporate finance, financial management, financial time series, and financial economics. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Finance, Economics or related fields. Teaching and/or working experience in the fields would be an advantage.

Applicants should send their CV, transcripts, 3 letters of recommendation, teaching evaluation (if available), and samples of their research work to the address below by mail. A review of candidates will begin immediately until the position is filled. Salary is commensurate with qualifications.
