Pomona College seeks a Director for a new Quantitative Skills Center established with a grant from The Arthur Vining Davis Foundations. Reporting to the Vice President and Dean of the College, the Director will be responsible for coordinating quantitative skills support, including hiring, training, and overseeing peer tutors for quantitative courses in the physical, natural, mathematical, and social sciences. The Director will coordinate with the existing peer mentoring and peer tutoring programs in the academic departments and with the Dean of Students Office. The Director will develop short-term modules in response to the needs of specific courses; develop online resources for students and faculty, and work with faculty to develop resources supporting “gateway” or entry-level quantitative courses across the curriculum.

The ideal candidate will have an advanced degree in the mathematical sciences, mathematics education, or the natural or social sciences with an emphasis in a quantitative field. Candidates must have experience teaching undergraduate students; possess excellent communication skills, and have the ability to work effectively and collaboratively with faculty, staff, and highly motivated undergraduate students. The college is particularly interested in candidates who have experience working with students from diverse backgrounds and who have demonstrated a commitment to improving access to higher education and success in higher education for underrepresented students.

Please submit an application, cover letter, and resume to: Pomona College, Attn: Human Resources, 150 E. Eighth St., Claremont, CA 91711. Documents may also be submitted via email at staffjobs@pomona.edu or by fax (909) 607-1726. Review of applications will begin on November 1st.

Economics
Assistant Professor in Economics

Pomona College expects to make a full-time tenure-track appointment to begin in academic year 2013-14. We seek an international macroeconomist whose primary research interests are in international finance. We anticipate hiring at the assistant professor level but in exceptional cases may consider more advanced scholars. Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 2013.

Pomona College, the founding member of the Claremont Colleges, is a highly selective independent, coeducational liberal arts college in Southern California with an enrollment of 1500 students. The college 13 economists, and the other Claremont Colleges have 30 more. The teaching load is four semester-courses per year.

Qualified, interested candidates should apply through Academic Jobs Online (https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo). Applicants should include a letter of application including a statement of teaching philosophy, vitae, and a sample of written work, and should arrange for forwarding of graduate transcripts (if at assistant professor level) and three letters of recommendation. To receive full consideration, complete applications should be received by December 7, 2012. We will interview at ASSA. Pomona College is an equal opportunity employer and strongly encourages applications from candidates with a demonstrable commitment to mentoring students from diverse backgrounds.
