Regional Extension Specialists positions with South Dakota State Extension System

All four positions are 12-month Agribusiness field specialist positions at the regional centers in Watertown (Crops), Aberdeen (Crops), Rapid City (Livestock) and Pierre (Livestock) and require a Masters Degree.

In 2011 the South Dakota Extension System reorganized around regional research and education centers and launched iGrow, a digital platform, from which to leverage research-based learning communities. There are six regional agribusiness positions associated with the Department of Economics (which supports degrees, research and outreach in agricultural and resource economics, agricultural business, business economics, economics and entrepreneurship) with specialists in Sioux Falls and Mitchell in addition to the four open positions. Regional Specialists are associated with the department and will be expected to collaborate with campus faculty members to build research based programs to support outreach programs for crops and livestock.

For questions on the livestock positions please contact Dr. Jerry Warmann, Search Committee Chair at Gerald.Warmann@sdstate.edu or 605-688-4866

For questions on the crops positions please contact Dr. Burton Pflueger, Search Committee Chair at burton.pflueger@sdstate.edu or 605-688-4863.
