The Economics Department is accepting applications for a tenure-track position beginning fall 2014. The position is open, but fields in political economy and open-economy macroeconomics, and the ability to teach international trade and econometrics are of particular interest. Teaching experience and completed Ph.D. by fall 2014 are expected. We seek applicants with a passion for innovative undergraduate teaching, including heterodox approaches, and applied and interdisciplinary work. Domestic and international field experiences and mentoring undergraduate research are strengths. Applications received before November 27, 2013 will be considered for an ASSA meeting interview.

Application should include cover letter; c.v.; teaching portfolio to include statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and summary of student evaluations; job market paper; graduate transcript; and three letters of recommendation attesting to teaching effectiveness. Electronic submission through Interfolio is required at: http://apply.interfolio.com/22468. Contact Cindy Kuemmel: kuemmel@siena.edu.
