Visiting Assistant Professor of Economics
Washington and Lee University

The Department of Economics at Washington and Lee University is inviting applications for a one-year or possibly two-year visiting appointment. Primary teaching responsibilities will be for Principles of Economics. Applicants for this position should be able to provide evidence that confirms their effectiveness as teachers; we have no strong preferences for fields of specialization. This position will entail teaching over two 12-week terms, the first ending before Christmas and the second from the second week of January to mid-April.

Washington and Lee University is a nationally-ranked liberal arts college with 1750 students located in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. Hallmarks of the institution are its honor system and faculty collegiality. Within the 100-year-old Williams School of Commerce, Economics and Politics, our 14-member department has made economics one of the most popular fields of study on campus. W&L is an equal opportunity employer. As such, we are interested in candidates who are committed to high standards of performance and professionalism and to the development of a campus climate that supports equality and diversity in our faculty, staff, and student body.

Applicants should submit via email a cover letter, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

CONTACT:
Carl P. Kaiser
Department of Economics
Williams School of Commerce, Economics, and Politics
kaiserc@wlu.edu