Position: Economics, Assistant Professor

Salary: commensurate with experience and achievement.

The Department of Economics, at The New School for Social Research and Eugene Lang College, has a job opening for an Assistant Professor, tenure track, to begin Fall 2016.

We seek scholars with a commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and to continuing productivity in economic research. The listed fields (below) provide a guide to our current interests, but the list is not meant to be exclusive.

- Econometric and Statistical Methods
- Macroeconomics
- Microeconomics
- International Economics
- Labor and Demographic economics
- Economics of Minorities and Races
- Economics of Gender
- Economic Development
- Current Heterodox Approaches
- Economic History
- History of Economic Thought

Our program has a distinctive profile in the economics profession and we have a strong interest in candidates with a demonstrated knowledge of political economy, heterodox economics, and the history of economic thought. Responsibilities include active participation in the undergraduate and graduate curriculum of the university. Salary will be commensurate with experience and achievement.

Please apply at: careers.newschool.edu. Include a cover letter indicating knowledge of the unique profile and history of The New School Economics Department, your c.v., a sample paper, available teaching evaluations. Three letters of reference can be sent to the department search committee directly by referees. Applications should be received by November 15th for full consideration.

Contact: Economics Search Committee, Dept. of Economics, The New School for Social Research, 6 E. 16th Street, Suite 1100, New York, NY 10003 or econsearch@newschool.edu.

For more information about the Department of Economics and Eugene Lang College, see http://www.newschool.edu/NSSR/ and http://www.newschool.edu/lang/.

The New School is committed to maintaining a diverse educational and creative community, a policy of equal opportunity in all its activities and programs, including employment and promotion. The New School does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, religion, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, age, disability, veteran or marital status. Individuals from groups historically under-represented in higher education are encouraged to apply, as are international candidates.