UNIVERSITY OF CONNECTICUT
Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics
Assistant or Associate Professor in Applied Microeconomics

We are seeking to fill a nine-month tenure track position in applied microeconomics, empirical industrial organization, and/or applied econometrics, conducting teaching (50%) and research (50%). Research focus in the areas of food, energy, and/or related public policy issues is preferred. Duties include teaching three courses per academic year, advising undergraduates and mentoring graduate students, and developing or continuing to develop an internationally recognized research program. Start date is August 23, 2015. Salary will be competitive with other public land-grant universities.

The University of Connecticut is one of the nation’s leading public research universities. The Department offers B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees and it is internationally recognized in the areas of Food Marketing & Industrial Organization, Environmental & Resource Economics, and Economic Development. The Department also hosts editorship of Agribusiness: An International Journal. We are located on the main campus of the University, within driving distance to Boston, and New York. For additional information, visit us at http://www.are.uconn.edu.

Minimum Qualifications
• A Ph.D. in Economics, Agricultural Economics, or a related field
• Excellent oral and written communication skills
• Excellent training in quantitative methods and microeconomic theory

Preferred Qualifications
• Record or potential to attract extramural funding
• Advanced training or experience in experimental methods and/or applied econometrics
• Record or potential for excellence in research in empirical industrial organization applied to food, energy markets and/or related public policy issues

To Apply
Submit the following materials through Husky Hire at http://www.jobs.uconn.edu/faculty (search #2015031) no later than November 15, 2014: (1) a cover letter that indicates your vision and programmatic objectives for the position; (2) curriculum vita; (3) graduate transcripts (unofficial okay); and (4) sample of publications or dissertation abstract. Arrange to have three letters of references sent directly to AREsearch@uconn.edu (subject: search #2015031). If available, upload copies of teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness. Employment of the successful candidate will be contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check. We will be interviewing at the ASSA meetings in Boston, January 3-5, 2015. For questions, call 860-486-2836 or send email to Karen.nye@uconn.edu.

The University of Connecticut is committed to building and supporting a multicultural and diverse community of students, faculty and staff. The diversity of students, faculty and staff continues to increase, as does the number of honors students, valedictorians and salutatorians who consistently make UConn their top choice. More than 100 research centers and institutes serve the University’s teaching, research, diversity, and outreach missions, leading to UConn’s ranking as one of the nation’s top research universities. UConn’s faculty and staff are the critical link to fostering and expanding our vibrant, multicultural and diverse University community. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity employer, UConn encourages applications from women, veterans, people with disabilities and members of traditionally underrepresented populations.