The Economics Department of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill invites applications for at least one tenure-track position at the assistant-professor level in all areas of the fields of econometrics and macroeconomics. The successful candidates will demonstrate the capacity for high-quality research and teaching. A completed Ph.D. in Economics is required by 1 July 2017.

We are committed to increasing diversity and we encourage applications from women and minority scholars. The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity employer that welcomes all to apply, including protected veterans and individuals with disabilities. Information about the Department is available at http://econ.unc.edu.

Qualified applicants should submit an application on-line at http://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/85114. The application should include a cover letter, CV, statements of research and teaching interests, and three letters of recommendation. (Finalists for the positions will be asked to provide a fourth letter of recommendation at a later stage of the search.)

Review of applications will begin on November 15; submission of applications prior to the beginning of the review process will guarantee full consideration. The search will continue until the positions are filled. Interviews will take place at the ASSA meetings in January 2016.
