The Office of Research and Development (ORD) of the United States Environmental Protection Agency is accepting applications beginning October 1, 2014 through October 31, 2014 for approximately 40 federal, three-year post-doctoral research positions.

HIGH PRIORITY RESEARCH OPPORTUNITIES

- Research spans all levels of human and ecological health including biologic organization from the genome to populations, communities and ecosystems
- Work as part of integrated trans-disciplinary research teams that generate results that contribute to protecting human health and the environment
- Mentors are nationally renowned in their fields, with a strong interest in shaping your career
- Facilities and equipment are state of the art
- Resources are reserved for your projects...no need to write a grant!
- Voted multiple times by The Scientist Magazine as the Best Place to Work for Post-Doctoral Fellows

UNSURPASSED FEDERAL EMPLOYEE BENEFITS

- Starting salary-- $47,923 for new Ph.D.; up to $101,866 for post-doctoral experience
- Full three-year appointments
- Paid relocation to EPA duty location
- Vacation and sick leave
- Federal health benefits, life insurance, and retirement program
- Travel to professional scientific meetings
- Active Post-doctoral Trainee Organization, onsite at RTP, NC

EASY APPLICATION PROCESS-- EMAIL, MAIL OR FAX US BY OCTOBER 31, 2014

- Up-to-date Curriculum Vitae
- Letter of recommendation from your research advisor or comparable official
- Cover letter indicating positions and locations of interest, your email address, U.S. citizenship status, and how you learned of this program
- DD-214, if claiming veteran’s preference

Preference is given to U.S. Citizens
To learn more about our current research projects and application requirements, please visit the ORD Internet site at http://cfpub.epa.gov/ordpd/index.cfm or contact Ms. Dorothy Carr at (800) 453-9633, or via email at ordpostdocapps@epa.gov.

The U.S. EPA is an Equal Opportunity Employer.