The U.S. Government Accountability Office anticipates openings in 2015 for entry and senior level economist positions in its Center for Economics (Applied Research and Methods). GAO serves a critical role providing the U.S. Congress with non-partisan, fact-based, objective analyses on a wide range of government programs and policy issues. Working along with public policy teams, economists develop and provide analyses across a wide spectrum of economic matters (e.g. education, income security, finance, labor, defense, technology, telecommunications, environment, manufacturing, international trade, transportation, health care).

We are interested in PhD candidates who expect their degree in 2015 as well as PhD economists. We seek economists with interests in applied economics and econometrics. We are particularly looking for economists with applied research skills in microeconomics including finance, international, public policy, education, labor, and industrial organization.

We will be conducting information sessions at the AEA meetings in Boston. If you are interested, here is the link to our JOE ad:
