The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia would like to publicize two faculty openings with the DITE network. Would you be willing to circulate the information below? We would appreciate it.

ASSISTANT, ASSOCIATE OR FULL PROFESSOR OF PUBLIC POLICY (EDUCATION POLICY)

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia seeks applications to fill one or more tenure-track or tenured positions in education policy to begin in fall 2015. We welcome applications from scholars who have a strong quantitative approach to education policy and earned doctorates in areas such as economics, education policy, public policy or related fields. Successful candidates must have a strong background in the substance of education policy and the potential for (junior candidates) or demonstrated success in (senior candidates) generating external funding support for their research. Senior candidates must have a distinguished academic record suitable for a tenured appointment. Candidates for tenure-track positions are expected to have completed their doctoral degrees by August 1, 2015.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in policy analysis with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The core faculty includes economists, political scientists, and psychologists, enriched by professors of practice who bring real-world policymaking expertise to the classroom. The successful candidate would have the potential for joint appointments with other academic units at U.Va.

Education policy is a strategic priority for the School. The School co-hosts the Center for Education Policy and Workforce Competitiveness with the Curry School of Education. The Center is a home for faculty and Ph.D. students from across the University interested in education policy. Faculty at the Center bring rigorous evidence to bear on some of the most important issues confronting education policymakers.

The School currently offers a two-year MPP degree, as well as an accelerated MPP program and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership. The School also offers dual degree programs with the Curry School of Education (MPP/PhD), School of Medicine (MPP/ MPH), Darden School of Business (MPP/ MBA), and the School of Law (MPP/ JD). The School currently has an endowment of over $130 million.

To apply, complete a Candidate Profile on-line at https://jobs.virginia.edu by searching on Posting Number 0615021. Candidates for Assistant Professor should 1) submit a CV, cover letter, and official or unofficial transcript of graduate coursework, and 2) have three references submit confidential letters of recommendation via email to educationpolicy@virginia.edu. Senior candidates should submit a CV, cover letter, and contact information of three professional references. Review of applications will begin October 18, 2014. The position will remain open until filled.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

ASSOCIATE OR FULL PROFESSOR OF PUBLIC POLICY (HEALTH ECONOMICS)

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia seeks applications to fill one or more tenured (associate or full professor) positions in health economics and public policy to begin in fall 2015. We welcome applications from scholars who have earned doctorates in economics, public policy, health policy, or related fields. Successful candidates must have a distinguished academic record suitable for a tenured appointment, a strong background in the substance of health policy, and demonstrated success in generating external... funding support for their research. We have a preference for appointments at the full professor level, but also welcome applications from candidates suitable for tenured associate professor appointments. Areas of research interest include but are not limited to: insurance markets (Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance), the Affordable Care Act and other health care reforms, health care costs and quality, health outcomes and behaviors, regional variation, pharmaceuticals, health technologies, the industrial organization of the health care system, and health care labor markets.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in policy analysis with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The core faculty includes economists, political scientists, and psychologists, enriched by professors of practice who bring real-world policymaking expertise to the classroom. The School currently offers the two-year MPP degree, as well as an accelerated MPP program and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership. The School also offers dual degree programs with the School of Medicine (MPP/ MPH), Darden School of Business (MPP/ MBA), and the School of Law (MPP/ JD). The successful candidate would have the potential for joint appointments with other academic units at U.Va.

The School currently has an endowment of $130 million. The School supports the Center for Health Policy. Growth of the Center's research capacity is one of the School's key strategic priorities.

To apply, first you must complete a Candidate Profile on-line at https://jobs.virginia.edu by searching on Posting Number 0615019. Second, you must follow the instructions at: http://batten.virginia.edu/ to complete the application process on EconJobMarket.org. Candidates should submit a CV, cover letter, and contact information of three professional references. Review of applications will begin October 18, 2014. The position will remain open until filled.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.