Stephen Markham, Ph.D.

Stephen Markham, Ph.D., is an associate professor at the Poole College of Management at NC State University, and serves on the faculty of the Center for Innovation Management Studies (CIMS), located in the college. Dr. Markham was the first director of CIMS, serving from 2000 to 2005. He is currently an advisor to the Technology Commercialization Clinic at NC State. Before joining CIMS, Dr. Markham co-founded LipoMed, Inc., a biomedical company that uses NMR spectroscopy for lipoprotein analysis.

Markham was also instrumental in the founding of LIPSinc, an animation software company that uses digital signal processing to automate lip synchronization, and Kyma, a material science company. Dr. Markham’s research focuses on the roles individuals play in developing and implementing high technology. He has published and presented widely in this field.

Markham holds an MBA from the University of California-Irvine, and his doctorate from Purdue University is in organizational behavior and human resource management.