AGA Government Finance Case Challenge 2016

What is it?

Student teams will collaboratively analyze and offer a written response to a case centered on the creation of a citizen-centric report for a U.S. city, county government or a school district. A two-round, national undergraduate student competition focusing on a different actual government each year.

- Round 1 – Prepare 4-page citizen-centric report for a designated government and 2-4 page summarizing the decisions the team reached in preparing the report. The round depends on your creativity and ability to write. You do not have to understand government accounting to participate in the competition.
- Round 2 – If selected for the national finals, submit 20-25 minute video describing the report and why the city council should select your report. Good presentation skills will be important during this round.

Do I qualify?

Two teams are allowed per undergraduate program. Each team can include up to 3 undergraduate members.

Where/When:

- Round 1 - Case challenge begins on TBD and submissions are due TBD no later than 11:00pm EST.
- Round 2 – Two or three finalist teams will be announced by TBD5 and video submissions are due TBD no later than 11:00pm EST.

What is in it for you?

Students will gain an understanding of government financial statements and how to develop a citizen-centric report. You will enhance your creativity, writing skills, teamwork skills, and presentation skills. Gift cards will be awarded to the competition champions. Three different NC State teams have made it to the finals. You can be the next!

What do you need to do now?

If you are interested, contact the case competition advisor Scott Showalter at scott_showalter@ncsu.edu or 513-0526 no later than TBD. Team registration needs to occur before 11:00pm EDT, TBD. A meeting will be held with everyone who is interested in participating in the case. The most qualified students will be selected to comprise the team.
