“NCSU: Why Chose Jenkins MAC?” Video Transcript

Opening Speaker
“Students join the Jenkins MAC Program from a wide range of universities in preparation to meet the challenges and expectations of professional accounting and business careers in today’s marketplace. Here’s why:"

Adam Tassitino, University of South Carolina
“I always believe that you are as successful as the people you surround yourself with, and I think NC State does a very good job of recruiting the most excellent students. You’re surrounded by like-minded individuals who are just as driven as you and the program as a whole, I think, does a really good job with the network of support and resources, and they’re really invested in your own success.”

Andrew Jordan, NC State University
“My experience so far with the program has been superb. Knowing exactly what’s expected of me and knowing exactly what I am to expect of the program has been clear and up-front since day one. That’s really, for a planner like me, put my mind at ease.”

Shannon Glatz, UNC - Chapel Hill
“All of the professors were either tax associates or audit associates out in the real-world working in the field, and I feel that they definitely have a lot of advice that they can give us, and have given us, if we need it.”

Caroline Auten, UNC – Wilmington
“I chose NC State mainly because of the Enterprise Risk Management concentration. As I was looking at programs, it seemed like it was one of the only schools that had that diverse concentration, and I thought it would give me an upper-hand when I went into my profession.”

Shannon Glatz
“Our professors always give us real-world examples that we can use going forward with our careers.”

Adam Tassitino
“The first class was a little bit of an adjustment, I was a little overwhelmed, but it’s simply because they have high expectations because we are high performers here.”

Edwin Wotorsi, North Carolina Central University
“The reason why I picked NC State for the MAC program was their recognition for job placement and the networking opportunities that they have, such as the tour of cities.”
Andrew Jordan
“The networking opportunities at NC State were huge, and I saw that all that value that I had experienced in undergrad was only going to get more valuable and bigger and better in the MAC program.”

Caroline Auten
“It’s in the Research Triangle area so the job opportunities and the connections are really abundant for somebody that’s coming in and will be going through recruitment looking for a profession.”

Edwin Wotorsi
“The networking, the job placement, and the preparation for the CPA Exam definitely set NC State apart from other programs.”

Adam Tassitino
“If you’re interested in pursuing a masters degree in accounting, there’s no better place you can do that.”
